

LIVING ROOM

COLOR POPS

Katherine Shenaman Interiors

The living room centers around Matt Godwin's Paintings of Fruit—a wonderful way to introduce color to this house. Due to unusual angles and ceiling transitions, the walls are painted white throughout the main living spaces. The Chesterfield-style sofa, in mustard colored leather, helps balance out the brightness of the paintings. Hand-glazed lamps from Christopher Spitzmiller also help keep things in balance, as do the variety of custom-made pillows. katherineshenaman.com

OCEANSIDE RETREAT

Jack Phillips Design

For a young couple with children, comfort and easy beachside living became the key element for the project. The sofas were custom-made, using sea-glass colored fabrics printed on union cloth. The coffee table is recycled wood with a weathered grey, sand-blasted top. It is reminiscent of driftwood, as is the sofa table. The accessories reflect a minimal approach to beachside living. The soft colors of the ocean were used throughout the house. The sunburst mirror is of handcrafted, wire-brushed oak. jphillipsdesign.com
