GOING COASTAL

Vero Beach-based showroom Our Boat House has recently expanded its seafaring style with a new Boca Raton locale. Inspired by summers spent in the Hamptons, the store's vast inventory includes slipcovered furniture in natural linens, hems and cottons, coastal-inspired lighting from iron chandeliers to rustic lanterns, and nautical accessories and authentic found treasures like ships' bells and portholes. Why not bring that relaxed beachy feel home? ourboathouse.com

Among the warehouses and graffiti art that have infused the Wynwood Arts District with industrial charm, Bianca and Angelica Ruggeri opened a unique flower boutique, Sprout. Sprout also features an intimate espresso bar and hosts events such as flower arranging classes and book club meetings. sproutmiami.com

MAN POWER

Let's face it, when it comes to great shops, the guys can often feel left out, but Fort Lauderdale menswear shop The Archives is bucking this trend. Owner Brad Minto brings his passion for design to his storefront with limited edition, exclusive and brand-new sneakers, apparel and accessories from both well-known and independent designers. To top it all off, and to really make the ladies jealous, The Archives also hosts book signings, art exhibits and musical performances. archvs.com

ART HISTORY

Through collaborations with both artists and museums, KIWI Arts Group, a fine art publishing house and gallery in Miami's Wynwood Arts District, seeks to highlight historically important artists and their work. Photographer William John Kennedy, who captured intimate moments in the early 1960s of Andy Warhol at work on his now iconic pieces, is on permanent view. Be sure to visit the gallery for a rare glimpse into Warhol right before the explosion of the Pop art movement and his own fame. If these walls could talk... kiwiartsgroup.com

HORSE SENSE

To me, there is nothing more therapeutic than horseback riding in Wellington. Lately, I haven't had the time to get out to the stables myself, but a welcome alternative is spending an afternoon at the International Polo Club Palm Beach, a fabulous way to occupy a Sunday. internationalpoloclub.com

I have to make a point to go to a screening at the Miami Beach Cinematheque. Frequented by highbrow film critics and locals alike, it's a super intimate venue with a retro feel. mbcinema.com

SHOP HAPPY

When I'm looking for a gift—for myself or a friend—I always head to The Webster on Collins Avenue. Housed in a brilliantly preserved Art Deco building, this shop is stocked with an incredible selection of accessories, handbags and clothing. Lately, I'm loving the dainty pieces by Alison Lou (shown below). thewebstermiami.com

Soho Beach House is my go-to spot for a Miami staycation. The spa, Cowshed Miami Beach, offers a killer selection of massage treatments and all of the products they use are plant-based. The spa's blow dry bar is also a fantastic feature. sohobeachhouse.com
